FRENCH PLANES WIN DECISIVE VICTORY IN FIGHT AGAINST ODDS

Nine Attack Twenty-Seven Fighters in Battle Formation—At Least Equal Number of Germans Shot Down Without Loss on the French Side—Rhine Island Is Shelled

PARIS, Nov. 6 (AP).—A violent aerial combat between twenty-seven German and nine French airplanes was reported by the general staff tonight, with the French announcing they shot down nine of the enemy and escaped themselves without a loss.

The encounter was announced as German ground forces, supported by artillery, were reported increasing pressure on the French frontier town of Forbach.

The French air squadron took the initiative against the German formation three times its size, the general staff said, and at least seven of the invading planes fell behind the French front lines.

The night communiqué said: "Great activity of the two aerial forces. During a violent aerial combat, nine French fighting planes attacked a group of twenty-seven German fighting planes. Nine of the latter were shot down, including seven at least in our territory. Our complete patrol returned unhurt."

EMPHASIZE IMPORTANCE

The fact that the French High Command, so sparing of words, devoted an entire communiqué to the French flyers' performance, emphasized the importance of the aerial victory. The safe return of all nine French craft to their bases indicated, in the opinion of military experts, that the Frenchmen carried out their attack with exceptional skill and speed.

This first big clash between planes in battle formation and of similar type was a decisive victory for the French craft, and proved their equipment and fighting qualities leave nothing to be desired, official said. Spotting the German craft.

BROKER FINED UNDER NEW ACT

Convicted on Three Charges Of Violation of Foreign Exchange Law

PORT ERIE, Ont., Nov. 6 (CP).—In the first case of its kind to be heard in Canada, Russell G. McMillan, forty-year-old Toronto stock broker, today was convicted on three charges of violation of the foreign exchange clause of the War Measures Act.

The charges were that McMillan smuggled into the Dominion on September 30, October 1, and October 2, 1939, securities without first obtaining an import licence. He was also charged with attempting to mislead an officer on October 19, when a further quantity of securities was found in the upholstery of his automobile, according to evidence presented today.

CHARGES PLEA TO GUILTY

McMillan, who previously pleaded not guilty, today changed his plea to guilty in all four cases. Police Magistrate John B. Jopkins fined McMillan $300 in each of the illegal importation cases, with an alternative sentence of six months imprisonment, to run concurrently with the other sentence.

Mrs. Mary Lester, fifty-two, Toronto, was given suspended sentence on two charges of aiding and abetting McMillan on October 7 and October 19, on payment of $1750 court costs.

Order Censorship to Tighten Defences in Face of Soviet Demands

HELSINKI, Nov. 6 (AP).—Facing the criticism of internationalists, the Finnish Government tonight tightened its defensive measures still further tomorrow by placing a censorship on mail, telegraph messages and telephone calls to other countries.

The danger of spy activities, a Government spokesman said, is the reason for the censorship, which also will apply to press telegrams and telephone calls.

Widely Varied Issues Will Be Settled by Voters in U.S. Today

California and Ohio to Vote on Old Age Pension Plans—New York to Decide on the Pari-Mutuel Question

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 (AP).—Old age pensions, pari-mutuel betting prohibition and a few contests indirectly involving President Roosevelt's policies confront the voters with a miscellany of issues in tomorrow's nation-wide elections.

While mayoral elections in several cities may provide some indications of national sentiment, national interest is fastened first of all upon the question of old age pensions. In two states, California and Ohio, that issue is up for settlement by referendum.

One Plane Fails to Return From Reconnaissance Trip Over Germany—Great Britain Confident Escort Vessels Will Maintain Sea Supremacy—U-Boats Are Fairly Mastered

LONDON, Nov. 6 (CP).—Sir John Simon will seek power from Parliament tomorrow to issue the first war loan. It may total as much as £250,000,000 ($1,117,500,000). But when it will be marketed is a treasury secret.

TO STRIVE FOR PEACE

Soviet Premier Says Russian Foreign Policy to Continue Unchanged

MOSCOW, Nov. 6 (CP).—Soviet Russia will continue an "unwavering" policy of peace, Premier Vyacheslav Molotov declared today, while capitalist countries "provoke the discontent of the masses" by their war policy.

Attacking "Capitalistic" Great Britain, France and the United States, the Premier in an address on the twenty-second anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution, declared Soviet Russia now is "solidly united and powerful," while "capitalism must perish because it is so old, weak and inefficient."

Molotov declared the Russian foreign policy of peace would be continued, and made no reference to indicate Russia might provide military aid to Germany.

On the contrary, foreign circles agreed Germany could not get a great deal of satisfaction from Molotov's speech.

BEST FOREIGN POLICY

"We know the best foreign policy for the Soviet Union is our tested policy of peace, which already has secured for us no mean successes," he asserted.

The "capitalist world is coming to realize evermore that the Soviet Union is not what they would like to see it," he said.

THREE KILLED IN AIRPLANE CRASH

SUDBURY, Ont., Nov. 6 (CP).—A homemade biplane plummeted to earth from a height of 1,000 feet today, killing its three occupants instantly. The machine, traveling at a terrific speed, nose-dived into a field near Larchwood.

Killed were Ross Armstrong, the pilot and owner; Frank Church and Donald Lennox. All were district miners.

Bewildered said that the plane appeared to be flying normally when suddenly its nose dipped toward the ground and the machine plunged to earth out of control.

Armstrong was a miner at Leveck and a keen aviation enthusiast. He built the machine which crashed. All three men were unmarried.

Death Robs Belgium Of National Hero in Beloved Burgomaster

Adolphe Max, for Thirty Years Mayor of Brussels, Was Famous for His Defiance of German Invaders During the Great War

BRUSSELS, Nov. 6 (AP).—Burgomaster Adolphe Max, sixty-nine, one of Belgium's national heroes and mayor of Brussels for thirty consecutive years, died today of pneumonia. Loved by the Belgians for his defiance of German invaders of his city during the Great War, he died shortly after Queen Mother Elizabeth visited him. One of the first to call after his death was King Leopold, a close personal friend.

When the German commander placed it next to the gun, thus beginning his resistance to the conscription which culminated in his arrest and detention in a German prison until after the war.

ESCAPES FROM PRISON

Max escaped from the prison at the time of the Armistice with a false passport written by himself, and on his return to Brussels was given an ovation by the people.

His will, made shortly before he died, asked that the funeral be without ceremony or speeches. His body will lie in state at the City Hall.

Rejoicing greeted his return in 1918 to Brussels, where he was known affectionately as "Our Max," and was a familiar figure on the city's boulevards with his terrier "Happy."

In 1925, Max tried unsuccessfully to form a National Government after King Albert designated him as a Premier. In addition to being one of the Liberal party's leaders, he was a national deputy and held decorations from many governments.

His heroic stand against the German invaders on the outbreak of the war in 1914 made him easily the most popular man in the whole of the tiny kingdom, and he never lost his place in the hearts of all Belgians.

REFUSES BARONY
Honored by many foreign countries, he preferred to remain plain Monsieur Adolphe Max in his own. When King Albert offered him a barony as reward for his unflinching services to the capital and the country, Max refused.

"Adolphe Max" sounds better than "Baron Max, of Brussels," he said.

Burgomaster Max was at ease at an official banquet or quaffing a glass of Brussels' famous beer with the bargains in "Les Marolles," heart of the old city. He was "Our Max" to one and all.

At every carnival he would be there to kiss the carnival queen, and when grief afflicted his city or his country he was the first to offer sympathy and start relief measures.

Max was more than anyone else led the nation's grief on the tragic occasions when King Albert and later Queen Astrid lost their lives.

LAWYER BY PROFESSION
A lawyer by profession, Max was born December 31, 1869, and was graduated as doctor of law at Brussels University at the age of twenty-five.

On October 3, 1903, he was elected member of Brussels City Council, after nine years as provincial councillor for Brabant. He soon forged ahead to a position of leadership in both the municipal and national Liberal groups, eventually sharing with his old friends, Paul Hymans, former foreign minister, the control of the Liberal party.

During the first few weeks of the German occupation of Brussels in 1914 he was a constant source of inspiration to his citizens, and refused to submit to German authority. He was arrested September 26, 1914, taken to Germany, and held prisoner in various German towns until he escaped on November 13, 1918.

DELIRIOUS ENTHUSIASM
When he returned to Brussels he was received with delirious enthusiasm, made a minister of state, elected member of the Royal Belgian Academy and named vice-president of the Superior Congo Council.

In 1919 he was elected to the House of Representatives, receiving more preference votes than any other candidate.

On the occasion of his silver jubilee as mayor of Brussels, when he refused to allow any celebrations, King Leopold III invested him with the grand cordon of the Order of Leopold with the golden border, a distinction specially created for him.

Among his foreign decorations was that of the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor, a rank usually reserved for heads of states.

MILITIA OFFICER—IS UNDER ARREST
AMSTERDAM, Nov. 6 (AP).—Two newspapers said today a lieutenant-colonel in the Netherlands army had been arrested on an espionage charge—an arrest they said might be connected with an alleged conspiracy to smuggle Netherlands uniforms into Germany.

The Rotterdam, at Rotterdam, and the Nieuwe Haasche Courant, at The Hague, did not name the officer, but said he formerly was a prominent National Socialist. Military authorities disclaimed knowledge of the arrest.

It was the second arrest in four days. In an alleged uniform smuggling case, the twenty-five-year-old son of a National Socialist member of the Provincial Government of Overijssel was seized at Rommebeek last Thursday.

The pari-mutuel referendum is in New York. The betting rings of its famous race tracks, Saratoga, Belmont Park and others have been dominated for years by handbook makers.

The prohibition question arises in rural Indiana. In that state, towns of less than 3,000 population are electing town officials. The dry forces have concentrated on candidates who will oppose the issuance of local liquor licenses.

GOVERNMENTAL ELECTION
The issue of Roosevelt policies is remotely present in a gubernatorial election in Kentucky and the election of a mayor in Philadelphia. In Kentucky, Democratic Governor Keen Johnson is running for reelection. His Republican opponent is Circuit Judge King Scope, who has criticized the national administration in his campaigning.

The Philadelphia contest finds Robert C. White, Democrat, running on a clean government issue, and Robert C. Lamberton, his Republican opponent, arguing that a Democratic victory would diminish the national prestige of the Republican party.

Edward Jeffries, Jr., president of the city council, is seeking to unseat Mayor Richard Reading in Detroit.

The nominating committee was appointed as follows: Mrs. A. G. Macdonald, Mrs. Russell Abbott and Col. J. H. McMullen.

An enthusiastic audience attended the opening of the New Cadet Theatre, Esquimalt, last night. Residents of the municipality, visitors from the city, and soldiers and sailors, pleased with the convenient location on Esquimalt Road, filled the modernistic theatre to capacity.

During the month, 416 single unemployed were cared for, compared with 413 last September and 411 in October, 1938. Of the 416 given aid, 201 were women.

from the blockade on the west, maintained by Great Britain and France, Netherlands official quarters a few days ago said there was no prospect of a military alliance with Belgium.

Foreign policies of the two nations have diverged sharply in recent years. Belgium accepting guarantees from both Germany and Great Britain, and the Netherlands believing it a better neutrality policy to accept no guarantees at all.

Efforts were made to keep the visit a secret, but the placing of a navy cordon of soldiers around the Noordeinde Palace caused the news to leak out.

It was learned that Leopold originally planned to leave last night after a few hours' visit, but postponed his departure until later today, presumably because of the importance of the discussions.

PAMPHLETS IN UNITED STATES

Cities Deluged With German Propaganda Against Britain, Reports Show

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 (AP).—A number of United States cities were deluged with propaganda pamphlets from Berlin today.

Postal authorities expressed belief that names of addresses were selected from city directories.

The leaflets, mailed October 18, charged Great Britain supplied Poles with poison gas used against German soldiers last September.

Most of the leaflets delivered in Boston were received in a building where the German Consulate formerly occupied offices.

WIDE DISTRIBUTION
Suburban postoffice near Newark, N.J., reported receipt of 300 each in Glen Ridge and Caldwell, 3,000 in Verona, 700 in Bloomfield, 3,000 in Teaneck and others elsewhere in Bergen and Essex Counties.

St. Louis also was flooded with the pamphlets, which said United States newspaper correspondents had given "evidence" of the use of gas in Poland.

Great Britain officially has denied charges gas was supplied to Poland.

James Matheson, bass, will sing "There Is No Death," while the choir will render two numbers, "Blessed Is the Nation" and "Lo, Round the Throne."

SAYS PLEDGES NOT FULFILLED
Dr. Manion Demands That Patronage Be Stopped—May Appeal to House

OTTAWA, Nov. 6 (CP).—Claiming that Prime Minister Mackenzie King's pledges to banish patronage during the war are not being carried out, Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, National Conservative leader, declared today that unless patronage is stopped he will bring it before Parliament at the next session.

In a prepared statement Dr. Manion followed up charges he made last week that patronage continues to operate in the granting of contracts and appointments to positions.

Mr. Mackenzie King last week replied that if Dr. Manion had any specific charges and would give him details he would have them investigated.

"From information which is constantly coming to me from all parts of Canada it is apparent that the Prime Minister's pledge to banish patronage is not being carried out," Dr. Manion declared.

"The Prime Minister is better at offering investigations than at correcting abuses," Dr. Manion said.

SAYS PLEDGES NOT FULFILLED

Dr. Manion Demands That Patronage Be Stopped—May Appeal to House

OTTAWA, Nov. 6 (CP).—Claiming that Prime Minister Mackenzie King's pledges to banish patronage during the war are not being carried out, Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, National Conservative leader, declared today that unless patronage is stopped he will bring it before Parliament at the next session.

In a prepared statement Dr. Manion followed up charges he made last week that patronage continues to operate in the granting of contracts and appointments to positions.

Mr. Mackenzie King last week replied that if Dr. Manion had any specific charges and would give him details he would have them investigated.

"From information which is constantly coming to me from all parts of Canada it is apparent that the Prime Minister's pledge to banish patronage is not being carried out," Dr. Manion declared.

"The Prime Minister is better at offering investigations than at correcting abuses," Dr. Manion said.

Wholesale Revision Of Street Names Is Delayed by Council

"I Think Names Should Be Left Alone," Mayor Andrew McGavin Tells Aldermen—Complaints Received From Taxpayers—Plan Is Tabled

FURTHER delay in plans of the inter-municipal committee to alter the names of thirty-four city streets was encountered at a City Council meeting yesterday afternoon. "I think the names of streets should be left alone. Many others are of the same opinion. It should be sufficient to correct errors in numbering," Mayor Andrew McGavin remarked.

Complaints against proposed new names for Garlick Street, Dallas Avenue and Walton Street from taxpayers were considered by the council and referred to the inter-municipal committee, headed by Alderman B. J. Gadsden. Restoration of the name Victoria Crescent and correction of numbers in the 400 Blocks on McClelland and Gadsden Streets were also sought by C. C. Pemberton.

Alderman John A. Worthington thought the committee had exceeded its instructions in proposing to rename streets. Alderman Gadsden reminded him the council had given the committee that authority on January 9.

Alderman Archie Willis thought street renaming should be held in

WHY SOME PEOPLE GROW OLD QUICK

Everybody should know the facts. Why do some people keep youthful while others grow old quickly before their time? Are you too busy to learn the truth? Are you prepared to face the facts and to admit them, if they apply to you? We say you may find new joy in living if you read and heed these frank statements.

Thousands of people just don't bother to do anything about constipation. They even re-considered. They think that if a person is constipated, that is all that matters. Occasionally they take a "good dose" of something, when the need is evident. That is the way to keep feeling fit, to prolong the years of youthful exuberance and well-being. It is to use the entire system free as possible from impurities and poisons. That means the blood, the kidneys, the intestines and the bowels. To do that your body must get certain mineral salts in some way.

We make no exaggerated claims for Kruschen Salts, but we recommend the "little daily dose" because Kruschen contains the most valuable mineral salts in highly refined form. Each salt has its particular function. In combination they help rid your system of excess poisons each day. Thus free from the effects of accumulated impurities you are much less apt to suffer from splitting head aches, acid indigestion, rheumatic pains, listlessness, because your excretory organs are encouraged to function normally.

Thousands upon thousands of people throughout the world refer to the general well-being it imparts as "that million dollar Kruschen feeling."

Start "the little daily dose" right away and just see for yourself.

Gadsden and T. W. Hawkins, the city engineer, wiring inspector, solicitor and electrician to consider various reports on the removal of B.C. Electric ground wires and report to the council.

A letter from the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council asking if any wives of former city employees who joined the army were employed at the City Hall was answered by Alderman Worthington, who stated that to the best of his knowledge none was on the payroll.

BRIDGE ACCIDENT

A letter from Crease & Crease informing the council that Margaret Lee Warner and George Lee Warner intended to sue the city for injuries sustained in a Johnson Street Bridge accident on October 2 was referred to the city solicitor. Alderman Archie Willis wanted to know if any body had been suspended as a result of the mishap. Alderman Edward Williams stated that a specific charge would first have to be laid. Mayor McGavin ruled further discussion out of order.

Alderman R. A. C. Dewar asked what had become of the special wage committee's report on civil salaries. Alderman Worthington stated that the report was ready, but careful consideration would have to be given to any plan to place an additional burden of $5,000 or $6,000 a year on taxpayers in time of war. Alderman Gadsden thought the report should be placed before the council.

"I don't like to see things like these brought in before an election," Mayor McGavin remarked.

An application from J. S. Heal and Cecil Fletcher for a license to operate a roller skating rink at 1052 Fort Street was referred to the chief of police and building inspector for a report.

SALES RATIFIED

Lands committee sales ratified by the council included two lots on Craigdarroch Road for $500 each, and a lot on the south side of Quebec Street, between Oswego and Menzies Streets, for $250.

Waterworks supplies to cost $372 were ordered on recommendation of the water board. The James McDonald Construction Company was authorized to repair the wharf at the Garlick Road yard at a cost of $213.40. A "no parking" area was ordered for 733 Johnson Street. It was decided to permit no rubbish dumping at the Erie Street fill without a permit from the engineer.

Election machinery was set in motion by the council with the appointment of M. F. Hunter, returning officer, and E. E. Coady Johnson, deputy. Nominations for mayor, five aldermen and four school trustees will be received in the council chamber from noon to 2 p.m. on December 7, followed by the annual contests on December 14.

LICENSING LAW REVIEWED HERE

Robert J. Lecky, Vancouver, Addresses Meeting on Proposed Contractors' Act

An outline of potential benefits that could accrue from the proposed Contractors' Licensing Act, now before the session of the Provincial Legislature here, was given to Victoria contractors last night by R. J. Lecky, who addressed a dinner meeting arranged by the Victoria Builders' Exchange in Spencer's dining room.

Mr. Lecky is from Vancouver, where he holds the post of secretary of the Building and Construction Industries Exchange and the General Contractors' Association. He explained the proposed set-up of the administration of the act and the proposed regulatory by-laws, the enforcement of which would be in the hands of a seven-man board, elected by contractors, serving without remuneration except for traveling and other necessary expenses.

PROTECTS INDUSTRY

Mr. Lecky said that the act would be of benefit to the contractor and a protection to the industry. It would, he stated, assist mechanics and promote stabilization of wages and a higher standard of working conditions. There would not be any restrictions placed on contractors to obtain a license to continue in the business, or would it prevent workmen from becoming contractors. Protection for the home builder was provided for in the act, and nothing would be done to deprive the home builder of his right to construct his own home by the day-labor process.

Mr. Lecky explained that the act would not interfere with corporations carrying on seasonal or other maintenance work which ordinarily would be carried out by the corporations without contract. Such corporations, he said, might include railway companies, large mercantile establishments and public utility corporations.

The speaker said he had addressed a number of meetings on the Mainland, and that all had expressed approval of the proposed legislation.

FLOWER SHOW TO AID FUND

Japanese Chrysanthemum Society Display for Red Cross at 725 Pandora

One of the most beautiful of flowers, the chrysanthemum, has been enlisted on the side of the Canadian Red Cross this week in a glorious display staged by the Japanese Chrysanthemum Growers' Society of Victoria at 725 Pandora Avenue. The show will be open daily from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., except Saturday, when it opens in the afternoon.

More than 500 individual entries have been assembled to make a grand showing. In order to make the undertaking as big a success as possible, Japanese amateur growers of the city, for months past, have been preparing for the event, admission to which is free. Visitors will be given an opportunity to make their contribution to the Red Cross either by dropping it into a box provided by this organization, or by payment for cuttings from any selected plant. All money will go to the fund.

Every little Japanese garden, veranda and porch in the city seems to have produced something for the glorious display of bloom, the colors varying from darkest mahogany and crimson, through the coppery golds, apricots and yellows, to most delicate pinks, ivories and pure whites. There are incurves, pom-poms, "spiders," Japanese, cascades, seedlings, and even a group of the recently-imported Nangohi-No, or "spray" varieties.

WINDOW DISPLAY

The window display is attractive, including a Cascade-type chrysanthemum trained into the shape of Fujiyama. A mass of pink and gold bloom has received a first prize. Just behind this is another cascade which bloomed so profusely that the weight of flowers broke the main stem. Very ingeniously the grower wired the stem together, then heavily taped it, and although it hangs at a right angle over the edge of the tub the plant is still healthy, and a mass of bloom.

Largest of all the exhibited plants is a single-trunked "Yemelan" measuring about eighteen feet in circumference and carrying over 1,000 flowers. This was grown by Mr. Kawase, 1922 Blanshard Street.

STRONG COMPETITION

The president, N. Watanabe, a veteran of the war of 1914-18, Secretary O. Onishi and Treasurer H. Ise are all well represented in the Red Cross effort, other members helping with their exhibits and work being W. Sawada, and Messrs. Tanaka, Kawase, Henne, Kuwahara, Okamoto, Marito, Kusume, Ishiguro, Kakuno, Kawahara and Mori. There is strong friendly competition, so keen that the judge W. H. Warren, city parks superintendent, and P. A. Saunders, head gardener at the Empress Hotel, had some difficulty in deciding the winners in many of the classes.

Mr. Watanabe, the president, took twenty-six first prizes and many lesser awards with the 167 pots of bloom he entered; the Junction Cleaners secured twenty-seven firsts from 107 entries, and the Monarch Cleaners twenty-five firsts from 107 entries.

The Central Cleaners secured the cup given by Mr. Ishiguro for the best entry in the "Kitchen" group, one of the special classes of the show where the second and third places, respectively, were won by the Junction Cleaners and N. Watanabe.

All the old favorites and several new varieties are found. In his big entry Mr. Watanabe shows a number of plants imported, as shown, from the Midway County Park Commission, and brought to maturity here. They include "Big Child," "Smith Early White," "Seminole Chief" and "Detroit News."

FEW ALIENS APPEAL

QUEBEC, Nov. 6 (C.P.)—Fifteen persons, among enemy aliens interned in Quebec since the outbreak of war, have instituted appeals for release, Chief Justice Albert Veinny, of the Quebec Superior Court, announced today.

Among the recently-imported Japanese varieties other than the "spray" previously mentioned is "Mrs. Shigen," whose fragile petals are often ingeniously (and invisibly) supported on wire hoops, the better to display their beauty. The "Yayoi Goshumi"-like clipped string, is another. Best single bloom in the show is a white incurve entered by I. Kakuno, of Cordova Bay.

Forty Years of Service

Mr. D. C. Coleman, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, with his headquarters at Montreal, has just completed forty years of service with that great organization. He joined the company in 1899, serving first at Fort William. Within eight years he had risen to the position of superintendent at Nelson, B.C.; then superintendent of car service at Winnipeg, 1908-1912; promoted to the post of general superintendent at Winnipeg, and later Calgary, during 1912-1915. In the latter year he became general manager of Western lines, and from 1918 to 1934 he was vice-president for Western lines, with headquarters at Winnipeg. From there, in 1934, he went to Montreal as vice-president of the system. Mr. Coleman's rise in the service of the railway company has been exceptionally rapid. He was a general superintendent at the age of thirty-two, and was only thirty-nine when he became Western vice-president.

Mr. Coleman has many interests and activities. When in Winnipeg he was made Chancellor of the University of Manitoba. In that Province, too, he headed the Navy League, the Manitoba Aviation League, the Canadian Forestry Association and other organizations. At present he is president of Bishops' College, at Lennoxville, Quebec. He is a keen collector of records of Canadian interest and is the possessor of some rare historical books and matter relating to the Canadian Northwest. In many affairs of peculiar Canadian interest he is admirably informed on the history of the country, on its politics and on those happenings which have marked the advance of the Dominion to its present stature as a self-governing nation within the Empire.

Personally, Mr. Coleman is wholly likeable. He has many close friends, who are keen admirers of his intellect, his administrative power and his social qualifications. His ripe judgment and his broad outlook are solid assets to the company he serves, and how well appreciated they are is shown by the rapidity of his promotion to succeeding posts of trust. Mr. Coleman has earned the title of a foremost Canadian, and there will be a general hope that he will long be spared to carry on those duties that he has discharged so admirably for so long.

MR. HOOVER AND THE WAR

Ex-President Hoover has written in The Saturday Evening Post an article the burden of which is that if the American people are guided by the voice of experience they will keep out of the war. He writes, naturally enough, from a strictly American standpoint and his opinions are, no doubt, shared by a good many Americans. He tells again the story that has long been current in the United States of how they were led into the Great War, of their altruism and idealism, of the hopes and aspirations that attended the successful issue of the war, of the blunders made at the Peace Conference, of the general disillusionment, and of the economic depression.

There is good authority for the opinion that we should read not to contradict and confute, nor to believe and take for granted, but to weigh and consider. The cautious reader will find in Mr. Hoover's essay certain assertions that can easily be refuted as well as some that he can agree with, but it is well worth while to weigh and consider all that he has to say if only for the express purpose of finding out, as precisely as possible, how and what the Americans are thinking during the present juncture.

In the first place Mr. Hoover does not go so far as to say that the true cause of American participation in the Great War was unselfish idealism and the desire to make the world safe for democracy. He makes the admission that they joined up because some of their citizens were attacked on the high seas by the dictator of that time, but he proceeds at once to lessen the force of this admission by insisting that the dominant impulse was in fact "idealism to protect liberty in the world." The public mind had been influenced by propaganda concerning the savagery of despots who, if not checked, would certainly undertake in due course to destroy American liberty. He adds that the idealistic impulse was so powerful at the moment that "any incident, no matter how minor or defensible," would have been enough to arouse them to warlike action. This, indeed, may have been true of the people at large, but it hardly does justice to the course pursued by the United States Government, which displayed much forbearance with the Germans during the first two and a half years of the war. The Lusitania episode in 1915 was hardly a "minor or defensible incident."

Of the peace settlement, Mr. Hoover says in effect that what hampered and finally defeated the men of good will at the Conference table was the domination of age-old hates, revenge, imperialism, nationalism, and greed. In his view these forces are especially malignant on the continent of Europe where population is so mixed that it seems impossible to draw boundaries on any plan in which the principle of racial self-determination can be harmonized with economic interests. The new era ushered in by the peace was of short duration. Before long some of the older as well as some of the newer democracies were replaced by dictatorships or totalitarian states. The immediate cause of the change was economic. Mr. Hoover does not undertake to say whether the economic pressure was due to the destruction caused by the war, or to the peace treaties, or to the old hatreds, but he points out, very properly, that everywhere there was felt the malign influence of demagogues and ideologists seeking to cure economic ills by governmental interference with the free play of individual enterprise and initiative.

The fact that the United States Government seized about 85 per cent of all war profits is mentioned with approval. Nearly half of the money paid by the United States Government to American producers of goods for the use of Great Britain was thus recovered by taxation and converted to the use of the United States Treasury, although the American Government was acting as agent and trustee for the United Kingdom. Nevertheless, Mr. Hoover says that this was a creditable transaction, and later on he claims additional credit for his country because it reduced the war debt by about one-half!

It is interesting and instructive to observe that Mr. Hoover in trying to account for the economic pressure which resulted in political revolution in Europe and the great depression everywhere, he does not say a single word about the evil effects of American fiscal policy, European selfishness and wrong-headedness, in his opinion, must bear the heaviest share of blame. Mr. Hoover asks plaintively why European countries forgot how American agriculture was wallowing in misery from over-expansion in the war to furnish them with food; and did they not, all of them, rush to other markets and impose quotas that favored other nations that had given them no aid? There is no suggestion here of the effect produced by the upward revision of the American tariff at the very moment when sound sense would have demanded a drastic reduction in order to furnish a market for foreign goods, and so enable those nations to discharge their debts. America had just become a creditor nation on a great scale and should have opened her ports to the commerce of the world. This she refused to do, and the refusal was the chief factor in fastening the curse of economic nationalism upon the world. With high tariff walls going up everywhere world commerce fell off in an alarming manner, and the resulting crash of 1929 began the long depression.

Mr. Hoover does not share the opinion that America will be drawn into the war. American sympathy with Great Britain and France is very much alive, but there is, he thinks, good ground for the belief that Great Britain and France can defend themselves if they stay on the defensive. As for the peace settlement which must follow the war, he points out very sensibly that Americans cannot create liberty and self-government in Central Europe, that the social regeneration of the Continental countries cannot be brought about by external agencies, but must come from within, and that, moreover, Americans have enough to do in the task of putting their own house in order.

THE CONVOY SYSTEM

Great Britain has now evolved elaborate plans to safeguard her mercantile marine, as a result of which the belief is that destruction of this tonnage by submarine action will show progressive declines. The practice is to assemble a number of merchant ships at some designated port, where instruction is given to their captains on procedure at sea on their way to their destinations. They are told of station positions, of darkening their ships, of zig-zagging on the course, followed, and of what to do in the event of attack by U-boats. They set out escorted by naval vessels, which may be cruisers, armed merchantmen, or destroyers and airplanes.

Among the advantages of convoy, says Commander H. Pursey, "is the fact that a submarine has only one opportunity of attacking ships en masse, instead of striking at each vessel separately, and the escort ships prevent this attack being made from a favorable position. The sinking of merchant ships by gunfire from a submarine or by scuttling, frequent occurrences in the early part of the last war, is also stopped. In the event of a torpedo attack, whether the submarine or only the path of the torpedo is sighted, her position is known and she is instantly hunted down."

The greatest good I know is to do a good action by stealth, and to have it found out by accident.—Charles Lamb.

Note and Comment

By SANDHAM GRAVES

"A" is for alphabet. Twenty-six letters that sit down and play with you, or get up and rave at you, fitting the mood.

"B" is for brevity. One word says more than two. Give us a few that describe all of creation.

"C" is for cutting. Much one may say or write would add to man's delight if left unuttered.

"D" is for dictionary. The home of the language, and often its resting place is covered with cobwebs.

"E" is for energy. Sleepy head or idle pen will not spin a tale for men, who must be up and doing.

"F" is for forcing. Strain a word out of shape, drag in a foreign word by its nose, and you'll regret it.

"G" is for grammar. Gerunds, and things like that, which quit and leave you flat when most you need them.

"H" is for hastiness. Short in allotted span man must do the best he can, but thoughts should be seasoned.

"I" is a peacock. Narcissus at the pool made but himself the fool by over-preening.

"J" is for justice. Let all your words be just, or take in return you must, retaliation.

"K" is for kindness. Thoughts that look bright today by nightfall waste away. Think all things through.

"L" is for laughter. There is need of that. Laughter makes the world grow fat; but laugh not in anger.

"M" is for mind. Minds grow with reasoned use, and there is no excuse for minds that remain empty.

"N" is for nettiness. Slovenliness in speech or pen will surely fly home again, like the chicken to roost.

"O" is an apostrophe. To be used sparingly, and not too daringly, save as in figures, when it means nothing.

"Q" is a question mark. Safe only on paper. Speakers who query hear more than they bargain for, from the back benches.

"R" is for result. Words are like cutting tools, sharp only when handled with purpose and direction.

"S" is for sincerity. Aught that man may say will be lost or thrown away, if you don't believe it.

"T" is for timeliness. Some men have fought their age, and left it in a rage, forever unhealed.

"U" is for understanding. Clear words are carriage lights, lighting up the darkest nights, so all men may see.

"V" is for veracity. Men of sagacity deal in veracity, which is always at par, and oft at a premium.

"W" is for writing. Writing is a peck's task. Stop any man and ask what pleasure is ever gave him.

"X" "Y" and "Z" all three, will have to wait on me. I'm off to lunch!

The time used is Pacific Standard Time for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 12:00 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for hours serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the time of tide is not continuously during two successive tidal periods without warning.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt Drydock at any tide, add 30 feet to the height of high water at above tide.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of lower low water.

Today's international diplomacy. One good note deserves another.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

From The Daily Colonist of November 7, 1889.

Large Shark—While G. Williams and A. Basso, two fishermen, were hauling in their net at Esquimalt yesterday afternoon, a large shark became entangled in the ropes. The men, who are both old hands at their business, immediately attached a line to the fish's tail and towed it into Victoria harbor. The shark was of the ground species, and measures about ten feet. Joseph Bayley, of the Esquimalt Fishery, has bought the large fish, and B. Whittaker has been engaged to stuff it.

Fine Horses—W. R. Clarke will sell at auction today at his sale room on Store Street, a number of exceptionally fine horses, the majority of which are from the celebrated Bow River Ranch. The sale will commence at 11 o'clock, when, doubtless many horsemen will be present.

A New Steel Main—Tenders have been invited by the City Council for the construction and laying of a steel water main, twenty-four inches in diameter and about 6,000 feet in length, from the dam of the Victoria waterworks toward the city. Tenders must be in by November 24.

GREAT WORK IS RECALLED

Red Cross Achievements Sketched in Connection With Campaign

The Dominion Government has intimated that it will need Red Cross assistance along the lines rendered by the society in the last war—therefore we are making an appeal for generous public response in the campaign which we will conduct next week in conjunction with the Greater Victoria Community Chest, said one of the Victoria Red Cross officials yesterday.

Not everyone is old enough or long enough memorialized to recall what the Canadian Red Cross stands for, or what it did in the last war.

BEGAN IN 1896

The history of the Canadian Red Cross Society dates back as far as 1896, when it was organized as the first overseas branch of the British Red Cross Society. Previous to the Great War the Canadian Societies' activities were chiefly devoted to the care of the sick and wounded of armies at war, and victims of disaster. In wartime the society acts as an auxiliary to the army medical services, and co-operates with the department of Militia and Defence.

It is the official channel through which voluntary gifts reach that department for eventual distribution to Canadian soldiers on active service, both in the front line or in Canadian hospitals.

During the last war the work of Red Cross included building and equipping many hospitals, supplies and extra comforts were issued to all Canadian military hospitals, and to scores of military and Red Cross Hospitals in the Shorncliffe area.

PRISONERS OF WAR

The prisoner of war department conducted by the Red Cross was recognized as the official committee for the care of all Canadian prisoners of war, and every such prisoner was supplied the maximum amount of food and clothing allowed by regulations. Rest homes were provided for nurses in London and Margate, and a convalescent home at Northwood. In Siberia the society undertook responsibility for all Red Cross work for both British and Canadian forces.

Two convoys of ambulances were provided and maintained in France, and one of ten ambulances in England. Canteens, huts and gymnasia were provided for Canadian troops in France. The Red Cross presented the French nation with a fully-equipped hospital near Paris.

In the present war, the Red Cross is organizing to meet not only the needs of the soldiers, but also their present requirements in depots and camps throughout the Dominion, and assistance is being rendered to Canadians in England who have enlisted with British forces there.

LOCAL SHOWBOAT BACK FROM TRIP

Victoria Cabin Cruiser Returns After Six-Month Vaudeville Tour Up Northern Coast

Arriving back in Victoria at the end of the week from a six months' vaudeville tour, the local showboat, Bert White's forty-foot cabin cruiser Showboat, with his crew of entertainers aboard, berthed in the Inner Harbor.

The Showboat called at most of the towns, villages and logging camps in the coast area, visiting also the canneries on Rivers Inlet, and the Skeena and Nass Rivers. At each place a vaudeville show was staged, followed by a dance.

Mr. White, owner of the show, said that they had a very interesting trip. One they were reported lost for some days, but the rumor was unfounded. The ship's crew, all Victorians, includes Tom Cartwright, skipper, engineer and show doorman; Laurence Edland, accordionist and pianist; Arthur Walden, saxophone and banjo, and Tom Hird, drummer. The Showboat did her share of mercy calling and came to the rescue of more than one sick person en route, Mr. White said.

REBEL LEADER KILLED

How About Goldfish?

Paragraph 74A of the city's public health by-law states: "No person shall keep any fish alive in any waters within the limits of the city of Victoria or adjacent thereto whether in a crate, tank, boat scow or other enclosure or receptacle of any description whatsoever." On the face of the by-law, it would appear nobody can lawfully keep goldfish.

At Otter Point a member of the Canadian Scottish Regiment appeared on sick parade with a slight bluish mark on his right arm. The medical officer belatedly: "You would not come to me with this in civil life." The private replied: "No, sir. I would send for you." "Little Willie," the reporter, was discussing motion pictures with our tobacconist friend. He remarked that a lot of movie thrills appeared to be faded. "I believe seven-eighths of the kissing and hand holding that goes on in the back row of every theatre is not sincere," the tobacconist replied, and then wondered why Willie blushed violently. "Bill, the Broad Street barber, believes the hardest crossword puzzles are the cross words a man speaks at home"—G.B.

The Vagaries of War

Germany speeds war materials to Rumania in order to fulfill her earlier arrangements with the Balkan country, so that she may obtain wheat and oil so badly needed. Rumania is neutral, so that Germany supplies a potential enemy with machines of war in return for the products of peace. It is a strange Europe made stranger by unethical economics, and who will know whose bullets are killing who—and why?—R.A.G.

The Nighthawk

Vancouver Street residents were amazed one night recently to see Fats, the rotund nighthawk, tagging up two large floodlight stands and a reflector in front of his shiny, white bungalow. At first they thought the reporter's mind had shifted a bit or that he was going to take a photograph of the dwelling for some night picture contest. However, they were all wrong, for after getting the lights adjusted to his satisfaction, Fats peeled off his coat, rolled up his sleeves and commenced to vigorously comb the leaves out of his bidding lawn with a rake. "The floodlight" lifetime was only something like three hours, so the portly scribe worked like fury. Every once in a while his better half would dash out of the house with coffee and sandwiches, and Fats would wolf them down without even missing one leaf. Finally, it was too much for Tom, next door, and he inquired what the big idea was? Without even looking up, the reporter rumbled that he had become so used to working nights before taking over a soft beat, that he just couldn't get up early enough in the morning to get his gardening done—W.I.F.

According to Culbertson

The most difficult thing to overcome in bridge as in life, is a habit of long standing. Forgetting about life for the moment and confining our attention to the more important game of bridge, we find that certain card combinations form natural traps for the average player. Time after time, they fall victim to the same irresistible bait. The declarer in today's hand was just another casualty.

Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:
North East South West
Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass

After North's jump raise, South made a cautious slam investigation, but when North could do no better than go back to four spades, South subsided.

West opened the heart queen, dummy's king covered, and East cashed the ace and nine spot, then shifted to a trump as the safest apparent exit. Declarer cleared up the adverse trump situation and then tried the club finesse. To declarer's great pleasure, East covered the club queen, and now declarer thought he was as good as home, since he could well afford to lose the diamond finesse. Unfortunately, however, he overlooked the fact that there were two possible losers in diamonds. He led low to the diamond king and returned the deuce toward his A-J. He was severely shocked when East failed to follow suit, but there was nothing much that he could do about it. Squirm as he might, he had to lose two tricks to West's Q-10 of diamonds and the sound contract was down one.

The play had been automatic up to this point. Howard Scott, Empire Theatre, November 10, 8 p.m. Tickets on sale at Belcher's Newsstand and 222 Pemberton Bldg.

Memorial Service Held by Salvation Army at Cenotaph

Led by Adjutant Charles Watt, himself a veteran who served in France during the Great War with the 4th Gordon Highlanders, a short memorial service was held at the Cenotaph on Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, in remembrance of those members of the Salvation Army who died on active service between 1914 and 1918.

DOCTORS CHECK KIDNEYS FIRST

Because they know that healthy kidneys remove from the blood the waste matter—the excess acids and poisons, formed by the ever-changing human body as it grows and rebuilds itself. But if the kidneys fail, illness surely follows. Backache, Rheumatism, Impure Blood, Lack of Energy, Too Frequent Urination, Sleeplessness, Headaches—all may result from faulty kidneys. As a health safeguard—as a wise precaution—regulate your kidneys frequently with Dodd's Kidney Pills—for over fifty years the favorite kidney remedy—most habit forming—safe.

Dodd's Kidney Pills

Paul played by the Citadel Band, followed by prayer by Adjutant Watt, and reading of Scripture by Adjutant J. Habkirk. "The Last Post" was sounded by Miss Hazel Brown, well-known cornetist from Bellinham.

Adjutant Watt delivered a brief address, following which Honorary Bandmaster William Ratcliffe, who served overseas with the Strathcona Horse, laid a wreath on the Cenotaph. "Reveille" sounded by Bandsman William Radcliffe, Jr., was followed by prayer, and the service was brought to a close with the hymn, "Abide With Me."

The service was held on Sunday because the Citadel Band will be in Vancouver during the coming weekend, and therefore unable to participate in the Victoria Remembrance Day service, to be held on Saturday.

HARD-OF-HEARING CLUB
Tonight's evening at 8.15 o'clock Miss Eugenie Perry, an author and former president of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Authors' Association, will speak on "Women Poets of Canada" at the rooms of the Victoria Club for the Hard-of-Hearing, 1414 Douglas Street. All hard-of-hearing persons and their friends will be welcome, and are invited to make use of the group-hearing aid belonging to the club.

FRENCHMEN WIN DECISIVE VICTORY

through a rift in the clouds above Alsace, the French flyers swept into action in triangular formation. The Germans, apparently eager for a fight, attacked in groups of three planes each.

OUTMANOEUVRED
Outmanoeuvred by the French, one German machine after another fell in a long trail of black smoke. It was established seven machines crashed within the French lines, and two went down in flames behind the German positions. It was believed two other German craft were crippled and came down in a French forest.

The clash proved, French officers said, that the planes at the disposal of the French airmen—whether French Morane or Dewoitine craft or American Curtiss ships, with which the flyers are now familiar—have incomparable striking power and manoeuvrability.

The German Messerschmidts may enjoy a slight edge in speed, but when great, wheeling combat tactics are called for the French machines have the advantage.

French land forces were surprised when daylight broke over the Rhine today, to find that the Germans had taken possession of a barren islet in the middle of the river.

A PERFECT TARGET
Heavy trench mortars, which polus have had few chances to use since war began, were trained on the perfect target. The fish-tailed mortar bombs, which closely resemble airplane bombs, rose high in the air, turned over in a slow curve and descended on the Germans. The latter hastily scrambled into a small boat and made for their own shore, pursued by a hail of French machine-gun bullets. French military experts were at a loss to explain the aim of the Germans in attempting to occupy the exposed island.

In the attack on Forbach, German shells alternated between intermittent shots into the town proper and a bombardment of three sides of the outlying sector.

DOMINATE CITY
Military sources said French artillery batteries behind Forbach dominated the German industrial city of Saarbrücken, where commercial activity has been paralyzed by military action.

The French general staff said it realized the Germans were trying to reduce the salient which bulges into Germany, where the frontier runs almost straight north from the village of Emmersweiler west of Forbach.

Schmeling Still Wants Title Mix

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 6 (CP).—City Council tonight approved a by-law calling for a plebiscite in December to obtain "an expression of opinion" from London voters on the proposal of Premier Hepburn that municipal elections in Ontario be suspended from the year 1, 1940, until the end of the war.

Contrary to the thought that "it is dangerous to touch a mole," sometimes it is far more dangerous to allow it to remain. Certainly it is dangerous to tamper or experiment with it, but to have it removed by means of electrolysis is absolutely safe. Some kinds of moles may be harmless, others very distinctly are not. Anyway they are a foreign substance that the wise man or woman would be only too glad to be rid of. Miss Hamman, telephone G 1642, 503 Scollard Bldg.

Of Course You Can Dye Your Own Hair

It's no trick at all for any man or woman to get rid of their grey hair right in their home, and get a professional-looking job, too. You can now prepare yourself a grey hair preparation that takes out the risk and is being used successfully by thousands to hide all traces of greying locks. Get from your druggist one ounce bay rum, one-fourth ounce glycerine, one box Orlex Compound. Mix these in half pint of water, or have your druggist prepare it for you at a small cost. This gives you a big bottle of one of the best grey hair preparations you can use. Simply combing this preparation into your hair several times a week soon imparts a rich, natural-looking color to grey, faded, streaked hair. That's all there is to it. It's easy, simple and safe. Best of all for only a few cents a week you can maintain this shade. Orlex, being colorless, does not stain the scalp, will not rub off or wash out, does not affect permanent, is not sticky or greasy and leaves the hair soft and glossy. Use the simple, economical Orlex recipe today and see how easy it is to eliminate all trace of grey hair, and look years younger.

Frank Analysis Given To Policy of Y.W.C.A.

Mrs. W. E. Stevenson Leads Discussion on Aims Of World-Wide Organization—No Longer in Soup-Kitchen, Fruit Basket Category

Members of the board of directors of the Y.W.C.A. staff, and members of the various committees connected with the association, work in Victoria gathered in the association building yesterday morning and afternoon to discuss from all angles the work in which they are interested.

Mrs. W. E. Stevenson was the chairman of the conference, the theme of which was "Factors which are making it necessary for the Y.W.C.A. to interpret itself clearly to the public." Mrs. B. S. Helmerman, president of the board, introduced Mrs. Stevenson, and also welcomed the out-of-town guests, who were Miss Mabel Blackley, general secretary in Vancouver; Mrs. McLeod, president of the Vancouver board; Mrs. H. C. Duffus, convenor of the physical education committee; Miss Margaret Harte and Miss M. Westwood, also of the Vancouver staff; Mrs. B. A. Ross, Seattle, acting general secretary and a former president in that city.

PUBLIC INVESTIGATES
The morning's discussions were based on the address by Mrs. Stevenson, who outlined the objects of the association. It was necessary, she said, to present a constructive and definite programme, because the public no longer contributes to organizations about which it knew nothing, and the spirit of investigation was a challenge. Factors which contributed to the necessity for interpreting the Y.W.C.A. more clearly included changes in social environment, drastic changes in the procedure and technique of the Y.W.C.A., the lack of confidence in religion and in agencies the public did not understand, the multiplicity of social agencies and the necessity for regarding character-building as a vital important rather than a luxury.

It was pointed out that the scope of the Y.W.C.A. had gone far beyond the "soup kitchen and fruit basket" stage, and that character-building was the chief aim. Present conditions made it necessary to devote thought to providing recreational facilities for unemployed girls, and new problems were arising on account of the war.

SPIRITUAL ASPECT
The spiritual side of the development of girls was emphasized in discussion based upon the theme of Miss Blackley's address, "Whither Bound?" It was felt that though new situations were arising from the war, the things of the past should in no way be sacrificed, and that group work should continue as a preparation for young people for the time of peace. It was important that normal recreations be maintained, even though this might mean certain adjustments.

Dr. Olga Jardine gave a summary of the day's discussions during the afternoon session. There was still something to do, she said. Many persons still believed that the Y.W.C.A. existed merely for the underprivileged girl, which was erroneous. Dr. Jardine pointed out that such conferences were of great value in stimulating interest and in discussing problems, and could do much towards broadening the scope of the association's activities and in bringing it to the attention of the public.

Dr. Jardine moved votes of thanks to Mrs. Stevenson, and to Messdames Lennox, Hunter, F. A. Lindsay and A. C. Brand for their part as conference hostesses.

THE HOSTESSES
The luncheon hostesses were Mrs. J. W. Lennox and Mrs. A. C. Brand, and during the tea hour, Mrs. J. D. Hunter, Mrs. Lennox, Mrs. Brand and Mrs. F. A. Lindsay acted in that capacity. The conference room had been attractively arranged for the occasion, potted chrysanthemums being grouped behind the chairs of the main speakers, and providing an artistic background.

Miss Dorothy Beech, girls' work secretary, was responsible for the musical part of the closing worship service, which was conducted by Miss Edna Jones. Miss Norma MacDonald acted as registrar for the conference.

Rangers Held to Hockey Draw by Detroit Icemen

Patrick's Team Scores Goal in Last Few Minutes To Gain Tie With Red Wings—Montreal Canadiens Display Class in Trouncing Chicago Black Hawks by Six-Goal Margin

DETROIT, Nov. 6 (CP)—A goal by Dutch Hiller late in the third period gained New York Rangers a 1-1 draw with Detroit Red Wings in the opening game here of the National Hockey League campaign.

Ten thousand fans watched Hiller tie the score in the last three minutes of regular play after Gus Giesebrecht, Detroit centre, put Wings in the lead midway of the second period, counting on a shot from just inside the blue line. Both goals were scored on solo dashes.

Detroit blew a fine chance in the opening period when the Rangers were short-handed for five minutes as the result of Lynn Patrick's major penalty for slashing Scotty Bowman.

Other Montreal goals went to Rod Lorrain, Cy Wentworth, Marty Barry, Toe Blake, Ray Gelfin and Louis Trudel. The Chicago marksmen were Mush March and Johnny Gottselig.

PORT ALBERNI BEATS STACEYS

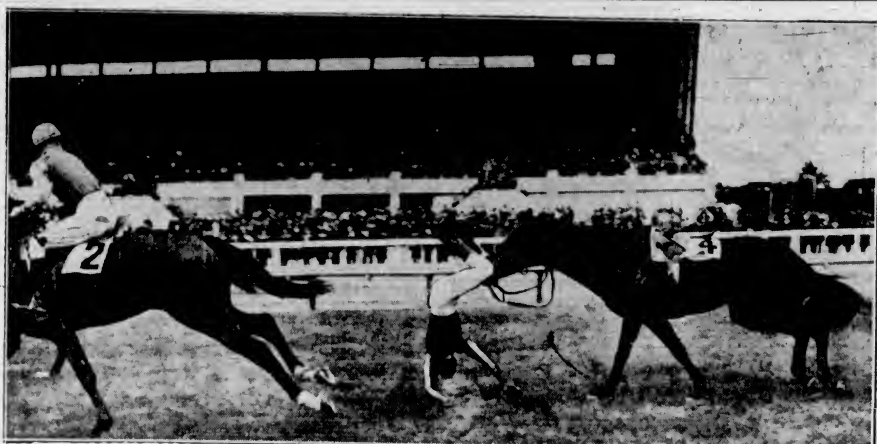

Coach "Toots" Meretsky's Cagers Turn Back Senior Mainland Team

Playing Coach Irving "Toots" Meretsky, who captained the Windar cagers in the Dominion final against the Victoria Dominions late last Spring, guided his Port Alberni senior "B" basketball team to a fine 37-33 victory over Staceys, of the Vancouver Senior League, over the week-end at the Up-Island centre.

After leaving Victoria, Meretsky was called to Port Alberni to coach and play.

Besides the former Eastern star, Ted Fraser, Chuck Holmes and Lance Hudson, started for the winners. Fraser had a particularly good evening and ran wild for eighteen points, while Holmes notched ten more. Alex Lucas led the Stacey team with an even dozen. Vancouver trailed for three quarters, but came to life in the final period to go in front for a brief time. The Up-Islanders rushed back with their scoring punch and won the decision.

AL REYNOLDS HEADS FIELD AT COLWOOD

Captures Handicap Golf Honors by Two Strokes—Art Dowell Second

"Blamming Al" Reynolds finished two lengths in front of the field to capture the men's handicap championship of the Colwood Golf Club as the fifty-four-hole tournament ended Sunday.

For the first thirty-six holes, Reynolds, also known as "One Putt," held a three-stroke margin, but during the final round he was forced to hold off the strong closing bid of Art Dowell to lift the silverware with a score of 201, just two wallops in front of the runner-up, George Quincey, who was in second place at the end of two rounds, was forced to drop out with a badly injured hand.

Reynolds had net rounds of 66, 67 and 68 for his winning total, while Dowell finished with a neat 66 for second position. Brian Hunnings was in third place, well behind the first two, along with A. K. Snell, both with 212. Then came Tom McPherson with 213, and Joe Colgate, runner-up to Ken Black, Vancouver, in the British Columbia amateur meet, had the best gross card with 230, and Brian Hunnings was the runner-up with 236.

Closely associated with the shuttle game for more than two decades, the Victoria Garrison Badminton Club has done much to foster the sport here. Sponsors of the Vancouver Island championships for many years, the Garrison Club has brought to the city some outstanding shuttlers on the Pacific Coast, the British Columbia Interior and other parts of Canada.

The timer, invented by a New York college student, never had been tried at a track before this meeting at the "Hill." Now it likely will be seen in Florida and Chicago this winter and next Spring.

Saturday, the track came up with a starting gate which locks the horses in at the post and springs open at the start, thus getting the bloods away truer and faster. Similar starting gates were used in Western Canada this year.

Morley Signs for

Lee Morley, former centre-half and all-star player of the St. Andrews football team, has been signed by St. Saviours in the Pacific Coast League, it was announced yesterday from the Mainland by Manager Charlie Alcock. He will appear in a Tiger uniform in the next scheduled match. Morley will, no doubt, strengthen the Saints' eleven, and he will either play pivot half or as an inside forward.

FIRE NINE REGULARS

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 (AP)—Ducky Pond today called his Varsity football team "the worst I've coached at any time at Yale," and fired nine of the regulars.

The head coach said that of the regulars who played in last week's Dartmouth debate, only Captain Bill Stack, centre, Bob Brooks, tackle, and sub-back Ted Brown, were certain to start against Brown here Saturday. Yale lost to Dartmouth, 33-0.

Move to Protect Status
Of Athletes Under Way*Amateur Athletic Union of Canada to Put Motion
To Meeting Due to the War Crisis—Bill
Dale Mentioned for Crow Trophy

EDMONTON, Nov. 6 (CP)—A move to protect the amateur status of athletes during the war will be made at the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, at Hamilton, Ont., November 26 and 29. John Leslie, of Edmonton, A.A.U. honorary secretary, announced tonight the president would sponsor a motion providing an athlete would retain his amateur status: 1. If, while in the service of His Majesty the King, he competed with or against a professional; 2. If he competes with or against a professional "in the said service." The Manitoba branch, in another motion scheduled to be discussed at the annual meeting, asks the expulsion of any branch "in arrears which has not made a sincere effort during the preceding twelve months to liquidate or reduce the arrears." A more equitable basis of voting between branch and team sports delegates is the aim of a second motion to be introduced by the president.

ONLY ONE VOTE

The motion provides that on matters and questions relating solely to team sports each branch would be limited to one vote. At present each branch has eight votes, whereas an allied body has only one vote for each of the eight branches.

Branch nominations for the Norton H. Crow Trophy to be awarded to Canada's outstanding amateur athlete in 1939 are:

British Columbia, William Dale, Victoria; Central Ontario, Larry G. O'Connor, Toronto; Southwestern Ontario, John Loring, Windsor; Quebec, Joseph Gagnon, Montreal.

Branch nominations for the Lou E. Marsh Trophy, to be given to the Dominion's outstanding athlete, professional or amateur, are:

Quebec, Joseph Gagnon; Southwestern Ontario, Harry Hurns, Montreal.

Applications for 1940 national championships are: Boxing, Alberta; boxing, Quebec; gymnastics, Manitoba; volleyball, Manitoba.

Motions from the British Columbia branch urged that applications for records be passed on by a standard records committee within thirty days of application, and ask a check on possibility of reducing expenditures so that branch fees could be reduced.

Rangers	2	1	1	0	3	2
Garrison	3	0	3	0	3	0

Sundays score: Esquimalt 3 (Ross 2, Stewart 1); Rangers, 1 (McCorkill).

Named manager a few minutes prior to kick-off time at a reorganization meeting of the club, Jock McCall Sunday piloted his Esquimalt team to a 3-1 triumph over the Rangers at Bullen Park.

The match was the first of the season for the Dockers, and their exhibition stamps them as dangerous contenders for the championship honors now held by Victoria West.

Their line-up slugged with star performers from the Navy team, Esquimalt trotted out a good squad, and were full value for their victory over the bustling young Rangers eleven. Dockers did considerable attacking in each stanza, but broke away on the part of their opponents were always dangerous.

Alec Ross marked up the only goal of the opening half, scoring at the thirty-five mark, and giving Esquimalt a 1-0 lead at the half.

Rangers displayed more confidence in the second canto, and gave the Esquimalt boys some real opposition. The eventual winners went two goals up when Ross fired home his second marker, and the veteran "Scotty" Stewart completed the scoring for the winners a few minutes later.

Louis McCorkill, brilliant young left winger, who played well all afternoon for Rangers, bagged their only marker. After seeing a number of his crosses going to waste, McCorkill cut in and fired a high shot just under the bar.

McMillan refereed.

Esquimalt line-up follows: Mundle, Rogers, March, Blyth, Cockrell, Robinson, Dods, "Scotty" Stewart, Alec Ross, John Watt, A. Simpson, Joe Watt, James Stewart, K. Elliott and A. Murray.

William "Bill" Barrett was named president of the Esquimalt Football Club, at the reorganization meeting held Sunday afternoon. Percy Stewart, a staunch supporter of the club, was elected vice-president, while J. F. "Jim" Mosher, veteran official, was the choice for the post of secretary. Norman Patterson was appointed secretary.

Jock McCall, who managed the club a few seasons ago, was named manager, while Joe Watt, veteran club member, was made captain. Alec Ross, star Navy forward, was chosen vice-captain. Joe Watt and Alec Ross were also named on the selection committee.

iron Scoring

TORONTO, Nov. 6 (CP)—By all the odds, Bernie Moroz should win the point-scoring honors of the East's current football season. The Sarnia half has led since The Canadian Press began compiling statistics and tonight his total of thirty-nine points edged out his nearest rival, Buster (Red) Storey.

Only one more week of regular play remains and Moroz, who scored eight points Saturday, has his biggest lead since the schedule opened five weeks ago.

Storey moved into second place by garnering his fifth touchdown for Toronto Argos Saturday. Wilf Tremblay, of Ottawa, is third with twenty-two. Tommy Burns, Montreal Westmont veteran, failed to score and dropped into a fourth-place tie in The Canadian Press standing with Clem Faust, University of Western Ontario star. Each has twenty-one.

Eddie Thompson, Balm Beach; Stan O'Neill, Ottawa, and Hazy Suliminski, Western, are well up with twenty points each. Don Grose, Peterborough ace, made the best advance of the past week, scoring nine points to jump into fourth place in the Ontario union. Crowe scored the Orfords' first touchdown of the season, and Tony Manorek did likewise for Hamilton Tigers.

PORT ARTHUR, Nov. 6 (CP)—New York Americans of the National Hockey League edged out Port Arthur Bear Cats, Canadian Senior amateur champions, 2-1, here, in an exhibition game.

Buz Boll scored at 14:36 of the first period, after taking a pass from Doc Romnes, to streak around left defence. Romnes poked the puck past Goalie Jake Nash a minute

RETAINS CROWN
For the second successive year, Miss Isabel Jarvis is champion of the women's division of the Gorge Vale Golf Club. Sunday, in the scheduled eighteen-hole final defending champion scored a 6 and 5 decision over Maureen Hill, the tournament medalist. History repeated itself, as the same pair met just twelve months ago for the crown for the first time, and Miss Jarvis breezed home to a 5 and 4 victory.
Miss Hill got a severe attack of the "jitters" around the greens and these, more than anything else, were the cause of her downfall. Her long game matched that of her opponent, but Miss Jarvis had a big edge in approaching and putting.

With absorbing realism, "Here I Am a Stranger," the film story which will start today at the Dominion Theatre, tells the story of a boy who reaches the threshold of manhood to find himself suddenly a stranger in the world he has grown up into. Bewildered by the conflict between his superficial world of wealth and sham and a new world of things that are real, he is torn and hurt by life, until he meets a girl as new to love as he is himself. Richard Dix and Brenda Joyce are featured in a cast including Roland Young, Gladys George and others.

ATLAS Frankie Burke (the juvenile Cagney) was one of the best patrons of his first joint film with Cagney, when Frankie idolizes. Burke went to see, "Angels With Dirty Faces" six times. He is now in the film "Hell's Kitchen," showing for the last time at the Atlas Theatre.

CAPITOL Norma Shearer is cast in her first modern society role since "Rip-tide," and Joan Crawford gets her initial opportunity to portray a "heavy." Rosalind Russell is given a chance to show her many-sided versatility as the screen's arch-gossip to date in "The Women," which is now showing at the Capitol Theatre.

COLUMBIA Excitement runs high in the film "Titans of the Deep," now showing at the Columbia Theatre. Five years in the making, it shows the amazing adventures of a scientific group headed by Dr. William Beebe and Otto Barton in solving many of the mysteries of life beneath the sea.

OAK BAY Errol Flynn, hero of "Dodge City," the huge Technicolor production which is now showing at the Oak Bay Theatre, "The turbulent days of the Brawling West of the 1870's is the colorful background.

CRIME TEARS ON CAROL WELLS

CHAPTER XXXVIII

"I am not yet prepared to state my plans," Cornelia said to Kellogg in her authoritative way, "but I will say that I propose to follow the terms of my brother's latest will, in regard to his friends and his employees. If the other heirs see fit to join me in this decision, well and good. If not, I shall assume these payments myself. The maintenance of the household is also a matter for consultation among myself and my two nephews. So, I think, Mr. Kellogg, we will ask you to wind up the estate as speedily as may be. Now we must consider the question of the Village Improvement plans. I understand that death cancels all contracts, and at any rate I know that my brother is not actually indebted to the committee. He remembered them largely in his will, but since the will is not in existence, the bequest cannot stand. But I want legal advice regarding any dealings that may be necessary between the estate and the village men who are concerned. Will you, Mr. Kellogg, see about such points and report to Mr. Ames, who will inform me?"

"Certainly, Miss Madison."

"Thank you. Today is Wednesday. The funeral services of my brother will take place on Friday. After that, I shall expect you to begin legal proceedings as soon as may be. I will ask to be excused now."

Cornelia rose and walked toward the door, which Craig sprang to open. As he sat down again, he said, in explanation, not in apology: "My aunt is greatly perturbed by this shock, and in an endeavor to be brave and dignified, she is, unconsciously, a little severe. I, too, will leave you, now, as I think there is no immediate work to be done. Call upon me when you choose, Kellogg, for information or advice, and when convenient, bring us a list of my uncle's principal assets. I want to feel that I know something about what is now, in part, my own money. I say, in any one of us the head of the house? I mean, is Miss Madison, by reason of her years, the head, or are we fellows, because we are of the sterner sex, or are we all free and equal?"

"The last, I think. At least, the legal disposition of the fortune carries with it no priority of claims."

"All right, I'm satisfied, in any case."

Craig went in search of Fleming Stone, and the two started on a tour of the village.

"What is your plan of approach?"

Craig asked, "Just go to a house and ask the good man at home? then what?"

"That doesn't sound very diplomatic to me," Stone returned. "Would it be better, perhaps, to attack one at his place of business, and make our call seem casual?"

"Maybe so. How about Henry Potter, the butcher? He's the worst of the lot, I believe, and I like to get the worst over first."

"Where is he?"

"Just across the green. He's not a gentleman."

"We must remember that he's one of a crowd who have just had their hopes blighted, and likely, their tempera roused. He may be in an inflammable mood, or he may be philosophical about it. We must act as the situation demands."

"They went into the butcher shop. As the beefy form of Potter, clad in immaculate white linen approached them, Stone said, genially:

"What a gem of a butcher shop. I could eat a steak off of your chopping block!"

"Nothing easier, sir. Any time you say, come in, and I'll set before you a porterhouse such as you never saw before! Now, Mr. Stone, what are you here for? Oh, yes, I know you. You're here to learn who killed Harley Madison. Found out yet?"

"No, I haven't. But knowing more about this village plan than any body else, as I think you do, I hoped you could give me a hint which way to look."

"You talk pretty smooth, but I reckon you mean, did I do the man in and will I give myself away to you if you keep a sharp watchout?"

This rather startled Stone, for it was exactly what was in his mind.

"You're a quick brain," he said.

"Well, here's the case; either you did kill Mr. Madison or you didn't. If you did, you'll not give yourself away; if you didn't, I think you're public-spirited enough to want the murderer found, and if you can help, you will."

The butcher looked at him and this little gimlet eyes were shrewder than ever.

"I'd like to talk to you, Mr. Stone," he said, "but not before young Madison. I've nothing against the boy; he's a good chap, and I had no hand in the killing of his uncle, but I'd rather he'd step outside for a bit, and you come into my little office."

Craig nodded, and went over and sat on a seat on the green. He looked round the ill-kept grass and shrubbery, and realized anew what a thankless job his uncle had embarked on. Small wonder his uncle had failed to make friends with the men. They were, many of them, ignorant and greedy. The butcher had been polite, in his way, but Craig remembered that before his uncle died Henry Potter had snarled at him whenever occasion offered, which, however, was not often.

But he had better things to think of, and his thoughts reverted to his changed condition. He was now a rich man, a millionaire, to say the least. He could do just as he pleased with his money, and if he chose to marry he could do so. And he had chosen, but it was a secret as yet.

TINY ISLAND
GOLD SOUGHTLegend of Peruvian Church
Treasures Luring Another
Expedition South

BALBOA, Cal., Nov. 6 (AP).—The legend of Cocos Island's buried gold lured another expedition southward today, guided by letters a century old.

The eighteen square miles of the tiny island, in the Pacific off the coast of Costa Rica, are pock-marked with diggings of a score of other adventurers. All returned empty-handed. But reports of millions in treasure persist.

George L. Bosley, an automobile club official, told of the newest hunt today. He said the sailing schooner Spindrift left Newport harbor here several days ago with eight men and a woman aboard.

He told this story of the trip's background:

In 1821, the Mary Dear, commanded by a Captain Thompson, was anchored at Callao, Peru. Treasure from Lima's Spanish Catholic Church—valued at $600,000 and including two life-sized statues of the Virgin Mary cast in solid gold—was put aboard because church officials feared revolution.

The articles were buried on Cocos Island. A few years later, the unnamed first mate wrote letters and drew maps detailing the burial and its location. These came into the hands of James Alexander Forbes, a doctor and navigator. They have been in the Forbes family since.

"They appear so authentic," said Bosley, "that we feel certain we are on the right track. They have never been used as the basis for a search."

Polish Liner Restrained From Sailing

Built at Trieste, Italy, under a barter agreement for the Gdynia America Line, the luxury ship Batory, now in a Canadian Atlantic port, will not be permitted to sail until the settlement of a suit brought by her Italian builders for $400,000. The ship was to be paid for in Polish coal, but the occupation of Poland by Germany and Russia has prevented payments being made.

BIGGER 'BATH
TUB GARDENS'Wake Island Will Grow
Enough Fresh Vegetables
For Local Consumption

WAKE ISLAND, Pacific Ocean. No. 6—Wake Island is to have a new hydro-ponicum—bigger and better than any hydro-ponicum the island has ever had to date, and with a capacity sufficient to keep Pan-American Airways' mid-Pacific air transport base fully stocked with fresh green vegetables.

The new hydroponicum (the experts much prefer this scientific term to the somewhat facetious designation "bath tub gardens" under which Wake's chemically nurtured vegetable beds—originally became famous) will be seventy feet long by fourteen feet, offering 980 square feet of growing space, as opposed to 320 square feet now offered by four redwood tanks, each five by one and one-half feet. It will be all one tank, built of concrete. Plans are complete and the construction work will be pushed to completion as soon as material and man-hours are available—probably within a month or two.

In the meantime Wake's new (since June) chief gardener, Torrey Lyons, finds that he has been able to achieve the status of chief purveyor of tomatoes to Wake's hotel, operated by Pan-American Airways, and to contribute many other vegetables as well.

WELCOME BY-PRODUCT

Up to this point, hydroponics at Wake has been largely an experimental project, with actual delivery of vegetables to the hotel chef as a welcome by-product. But the capacity of the original hydroponicum is not sufficient to produce all the green vegetables necessary, hence the plans for a larger one.

Lyons, like his predecessor, Lamory Laumetier, is a graduate of the University of California, where he studied forestry and plant physiology, and did research work on culture solutions. As chief gardener, he is responsible for the landscaping of the grounds as well as the hydroponicum.
